DEATH IN THE WILDERNESS.—The Boston Post has the following from Bangor, Me. : The particulars of a shocking case of suffer ing and death are reported here by one of the privivors of a hunting and fishing party, conting of five individuals (French Canadians), who were stricken down by disease and perished in their camp on the Canada side, not many miles from the American border. A party of tive persons, of which he was one, set out with two horses and a pung about Christmas, upon y a hunting and fishing expedition in the wilder-ness near the American line. The party were ness near the American line. The party were well equipped with guns, traps, tishing-tackle, and provisions, intending to spend a month or two in that uninhabited region. Returning to camp one evening, one of the men complained of a sore throat. Not much was thought of it by the rest of the party, till toward the mid dle of the night the man gave evidence of extreme suffering, his throat being swollen. He had been attacked by that most loathsome and fatal disease, diphtheria. Without medicine [Two doors south of old stand,] of any description, and nearly fifty miles from any human habitation, before night set in the man was a corpse. Before the first victim ex pired, however, another of the party began to complain of the same difficulty, and on the second day died of strangulation; or from the filling up of the throat. The three survivors ed them over with snow, for the purpose of pre-took the two bodies out of the camp, and coverserving them till they could carry them out of the forest. Determined to break up camp the next day and return with their dead comrades, they were doomed to disappointment, in consequence of two of the remaining three being prostrated by the same terrible agent. The last two survived about forty-eight hours, when they, in turn, were carried out by the only one remaining, to be buried in the snow. The sole survivor resolved to start for the abode of civilization with his freight of pulseless humanity. During the night the deadly contagion fastened upon himself. In his own words he "felt the monster at his throat," and resigned himself as well as he could, to his fate. He lay, as he thinks, some four or five days before he awoke to consciousness of his tearful situation. The mildness of the weather and a good supply of blankets and boughs, saved him from freezing. in the absence of a fire, which he was too weak to kindle. As soon as he could crawl, he went to the hevel and to his amazement and grief, found both of the horses dead. They had died of starvation. Returning to his camp, he thought he would take a look at his dead companious. Judge of his horror, when he found their bodies nearly eaten up by the wolves and other wild beasts that inhabit that wild and desolate region. Nothing now was left for him to do but to make his way alone, out of the

It is asserted by persons who have looked into the matter that not less than two hundred so called spiritual mediums make a living in this city by taking pay for what they call communi-

Most of these mediums are, it is said, women. They are divided into different classes; healing, painting, writing, clairvoyant, symbol, trance, test and business mediums. All, save the painters, healers and dealers in symbols, purport to give advice directly in business. The worst paid of these classes are to be found, in part, on Bleecker street, in the Bowery, and scattered through minor thor ughtares. Their charge for a scance of twenty-live or thirty minutes is from half a dotlar to a dollar; and it is supposed that their average receipts, daily, are from two and a half dollars to four dollars. On Amity, Fourth, Fifecenth and other streets including Broadway, however, are writing, test and business mediums who never give a scance how great soever the number present, under from three to five dollars for each person preent. Large sums are realized by these dailyone man, it is reported, netted by his opera tions ten or fifteen thousand dollars anual y.

The healing and painting mediums, a'so make money in abundance. Some of the former own splendidly furnished brownstone residences; while the best known of the latter never want employment or wealthy patrons. What may be termed a representative man of this class here has now a painting on his ease! that will, it is reported, bring him five thous and dollars. These paintings purport, for the most part, to be portraits of deceased persons, whom the artist had neither seen nor known in life, and of whose features he could have had no previous knowledge. Besides this, there are minor himners, such as one armed women, who, with her one-legged husband is painting flowers. blindfolded, in Brooklyn, and on Thirty third street in this city, and who purports to depict. in the course of a few minutes, the leading features of any family, through the instrumertality of buds and full blown roses, &c. - N. DR. JOHNSON,

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE. Dr. d. Keltreses att those who have injured thumselves by improper indulgance and sold ary habits, which rain both body and mind unlitting them for either business, study, socie

These are some of the sad and melancholy offects produced by early habits of youth, viz Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Head, Dinness of Sight, Loss of Muscular Pow er, Paipitation of the Heart Dyspepsia, Ner yous Irritablity, Derangement of the Digestive Functions, General Debility, Symptoms o

What a pity that a young man, the hope of his country, the pride of his parents, should be snatched from all prespects and enjoyments of life by the consequence of deviating from the Hie by the consequence of deviating from the path of esture, and indulging in a certain secret habit. Such persons must, before contemplating plating MARRIAGE. reflect that a sound mind and body are the most necessary requisites to promote connubial hap-piness. Indeed, without these the journey through life becomes a weary pilgrimage, the prosp of hearly darkens to the view, the mind becomes shadowed with despair and filled with the melancholy reflection that the happiness of another becomes blighted with your own. DISEASES OF IMPRUDENCE.

When the misguided and imprudent votary pleasure finds that he has imbibed the seeds of pleasure finds that he has imbibed the seeds of this painful disease it too often happens that an ill-timed sense of shame or dread of discovery deters him from applying to those, way from education and respectability, can alon befriend him, delaying till the constitutional symptoms of the heart disease make their appearance, such as observed sore throat, diseased pearance, such as obserated sore throat, diseased nose, necturnal points in the head and limbs, dimness of sight, deafness, nodes on the shin bones and arms, blotches on the head, face and extremities, progressing with frightful rapidity till at last the pulate of the mouth or the lone of the nose fail in, and the victim of this awfurdisease becomes a herrid object of commisseration, till death puts a period to his dreadful sufferings, by sending him to "that lindiscovered ferings, by sending him to "that Undiscovered Country from whence no traveller returns." It is a MELANCHOLY FACE that thou to the unskillulness of agnorant pretonders, who, by the use of that DEADLY POISON, MYR-CHEY, can the constitution end make the residue of life amerable. DR. JOHNSON, OFFICE, No. 7, SOUTH PREDERICK STREET
